Digital-media background, two years of overseas marketing & ops

I'm Eve Yang, a First-Class Digital Media & Culture graduate from KCL, starting at LSE this year. Over the past two years I've focused on overseas marketing and operations, independently owning several real projects: leading VOOPOO's UK influencer marketing at Vertex; running a UK Amazon FBA store solo across sourcing, pricing, listing optimisation and advertising; and growing a Xiaohongshu (RED) account from 0 to 8,000+ followers.

I use data and AI tools to drive market research, competitor analysis and creator selection, and can carry a project from research and strategy through to execution on my own. On a team I usually take the lead (MBTI: ENTJ). My English is close to native, so overseas-facing roles are what I'm most drawn to.

01

Independent ownership

I own the full chain from research and strategy to execution, taking multiple projects from zero to real results.

02

Data & AI driven

I use Helium 10, Keepa, Perplexity and Claude for research, competitor analysis and creator selection, so decisions are evidence-based.

03

Overseas & bilingual

Near-native English and long hands-on experience in the UK market, fluent in Western social ecosystems and creator collaboration.

VERTEX MARKETING · AI OVERSEAS INFLUENCER OPS

VOOPOO UK Influencer Campaign

INTERNSHIP

Apr – Jun 2026 · Marketing & Influencer

Owned VOOPOO's UK influencer marketing end to end — from market research and creator selection to live collaborations — optimising delivery with data.

• Market & competitor research

• KOL / KOC screening

• Creator outreach & deals

• Data-driven delivery

2.8M+

Impressions

7.2%

Avg. engagement

600+

Creators screened

RESPONSIBILITIES

- Ran VOOPOO's UK influencer marketing across TikTok, Instagram and Reddit
- Conducted market and competitor research with Perplexity, Claude and Google Trends
- AI-screened 600+ overseas KOLs / KOCs, focusing on 10k–100k mid-tier creators, and built a creator database
- Independently handled outreach and collaboration with 120+ creators (reviews / UGC / short video)

RESULTS

- ✓ 2.8M+ impressions and 7.2% average engagement
- ✓ Selected accounts averaged 8%+ engagement, above the industry benchmark
- ✓ Continuously optimised creator strategy on performance data to improve content and delivery

Project context VOOPOO is an overseas-focused vaping / atomiser brand whose customers are mainly in Europe and the US, with growth heavily reliant on Western social media and creators — a textbook "overseas influencer marketing" project.

AMAZON UK · CROSS-BORDER E-COMMERCE

Pet Products · Solo Amazon FBA Store VENTURE

Apr 2025 – Apr 2026 · Cross-border E-commerce

Ran a UK Amazon FBA pet-products store solo, owning the full chain from sourcing to ads, and turned a profit.

• Sourcing & pricing

• Listing & keyword SEO

• PPC advertising

• Inventory & analytics

Orders

£3,500

Revenue

~20%

Net margin

The product I ran: macaron-tone pet slow-feeder mats (real product)

RESPONSIBILITIES

- Ran a UK Amazon FBA pet-products store end to end, solo
- Analysed demand, competitors and price bands with Helium 10 and Keepa to set sourcing and pricing
- Optimised listing title, keywords, main image and A+ pages
- Ran and optimised PPC ads, and managed inventory turnover and fulfilment

RESULTS

- ✓ 500+ orders and about £3,500 in revenue
- ✓ Optimised ads and conversion with AI-assisted analysis for a project net margin of about 20%

Highlight Running the full "sourcing → pricing → listing → ads → inventory" loop alone builds real, tested instincts for the data sense and P&L awareness a merchant-operations role needs.

Aesop UK Digital Marketing Campaign

COURSEWORK

2026 · Marketing & Influencer

Built a full digital marketing campaign for Aesop UK — starting from PESTLE / SWOT audience and situational analysis, then landing it as an integrated "social + influencer + email" plan, consistent with the brand's premium, non-promotional tone.

Campaign objective & audience Target UK women aged 25–34 earning ~£30–40k who value quality and social responsibility; focus on building awareness and the "consideration" stage rather than short-term sales, guiding more informed, confident purchase decisions.

Campaign Plan · Three marketing tools

1

Social Media · Instagram

Three minimalist image posts in May: ① educate on skin types and drive free in-store consultation bookings; ② recommend products by seasonal skin needs; ③ collect UGC via #AesopSkinCheck, with 20% off facials for bookings. Instagram chosen: image-led, and 33.3% of UK users are aged 25–34.

2

Influencer

Selected lifestyle / self-care creators produce soft, experience-based content — integrating Aesop into daily skincare routines and documenting in-store consultation & facial experiences, linking the online campaign to physical stores; no hard selling, no before/after.

3

A confirmation email after booking reduces uncertainty; after the consultation, AI / CRM tools (Salesforce, HubSpot) send personalised follow-ups — routine and skincare tips based on the consultation — to strengthen conversion, fully GDPR-compliant.

Highlight From audience analysis (PESTLE / SWOT) to landing three concrete tools, this maps out a complete, value-led and non-promotional integrated campaign; the tutor specifically praised the "turning research into commercial recommendations" — the core skill of a marketing-strategy role.

05

AESOP UK · INFLUENCER MARKETING

Selected Creators & Selection Logic

Influencer selection & rationale

Rather than chasing beauty influencers alone, I selected 3 "lifestyle × skincare" creators around brand tone and target audience, using soft, experience-based content to place Aesop naturally.

Selected creators · Examples (Table 1)

Linnea Levoskin

@linnealevoskin

87.6k followers

A lifestyle & skincare creator focused on minimal routines, natural aesthetics and calm, mindful self-care.

Akhalia Fearon

@akhalia.fearon

69.9k followers

A wellness & lifestyle creator sharing daily routines and hair; emphasises authenticity and a balanced approach to beauty.

Yezi.Beauty

@yezi.beauty

351k followers

A skincare-focused creator producing product reviews, routines and knowledge, centred on ingredient awareness and everyday skin concerns.

SELECTION LOGIC

- Fit the brand tone: minimalist style and calm voice, echoing sustainability and mindful consumption
- Beyond beauty: include lifestyle / wellness creators to place Aesop in a wider lifestyle context
- Age relevance: all fall within the 25–34 core audience for stronger relatability
- Diverse backgrounds: creators of diverse ethnicities reinforce a "for all skin types and people" image

COLLABORATION & GOALS

- ✓ Soft, experience-based content that integrates the product into daily life, not direct promotion
- ✓ Document in-store consultation / facial experiences, linking online campaign with physical stores
- ✓ Clearly disclose sponsored content for transparency and authenticity
- ✓ Aim to build visibility and long-term relationships rather than immediate sales

Why this selection Creator selection is where marketing-strategy judgement shows: weighing brand positioning, target audience and content ethics together, not just follower count. The full plan and creator list are included in the portfolio PDF.

MARKSMARTER · TEAM LEADER

An AI-era Academic Writing & Assessment Platform

COURSEWORK

Oct 2024 – Jan 2025 · Product & User Research

As team leader, designed a dual-sided (student & professor) AI-assisted writing/assessment platform, owning user research and product design through a full user-centred process.

• User research & personas

• Dual-sided design

• Figma prototyping

• Team leadership

RESPONSIBILITIES

- Led the team on task allocation and delivery as team leader
- Designed product features for both student and professor sides
- Built two user personas (student and professor) and ran user research
- Ran the full loop from secondary research and idea evaluation to Figma prototype and testing

RESULTS

- ✓ Completed a full user-centred product design cycle
- ✓ Produced a working prototype and test findings
- ✓ Tackled the challenges generative AI brings to higher-education assessment

USER PERSONAS · EXAMPLES (PERSONAS I OWNED)

Dr. Jane Smith

PROFESSOR

Senior Lecturer in Digital Media, Oxford · 45

- 15 years in higher ed, focused on innovative teaching and course design
- Pain: AI makes assessment harder; wants to catch "thought plagiarism", not just text overlap
- Wants a more efficient system to summarise work and streamline marking

Lucas Carter

STUDENT

MSc Environmental Studies, Warwick · 23

- Wants high-quality, original academic work
- Wants AI to help with writing and structuring ideas, but worries about originality and integrity
- Pain: tight deadlines + perfectionism cause procrastination; wants structured feedback
