My UK influencer work reached 2.8M impressions, my solo Amazon UK store completed 500+ orders, and a Xiaohongshu account I ran grew to 8,000+ followers in two months. — ABOUT

Digital-media background, two years of overseas marketing & ops

I'm Eve Yang, a First-Class Digital Media & Culture graduate from KCL, starting at LSE this year. For the past two years I've focused on overseas marketing and operations, owning several real projects: leading VOOPOO's UK influencer marketing at Vertex; running a UK Amazon store solo across sourcing, pricing, listing optimisation and advertising; and growing a Xiaohongshu account from 0 to 8,000+ followers.

I use data and AI tools to drive market research, competitor analysis and creator selection, and can carry a project from research and strategy through to execution on my own. On a team I usually take the lead (MBTI: ENTJ). My English is close to native, so overseas-facing roles are what I'm most drawn to.
